This single family home is part of the Crown Heights historic district and when you see it, you'll know why. Built in 1894 by the architectural firm Dahlander & Hedman, this Renaissance Revival townhouse still has many of its beautiful original details such as inlaid hardwood floors, wainscoting, wood shutters, fireplace mantles with cast iron details, pocket doors, stained glass windows & a vintage iron sink. Extra high ceilings and North/South exposure give every room a bright & airy feeling. The extra-long backyard is primed for a green thumb & will be a winning draw for the gardening aficionado. All that it needs is updated bathrooms and you can move right in, or make it into a two family and collect an income!
